ENDURING SATISFACTION INSURED

Every Continental Home is designed and built to provide a house that is the last word in technical excellence, in equipment, and above all in a design for an exhilarating way of life that is the culmination of all of the experience and knowledge of the nation's largest building organization devoted to the quality home concept. This is evident in all of the attention given to soundness of structure, serviceability of materials, and the overriding concern for protection against the damages of time and weather which add up to the low maintenance and service-free life which make for enduring satisfaction.
